Dear Families

Parent Forum Event

I would like to invite you to our next parent forum which will be 5:00pm - 6:00pm on Thursday 19 January 2023.

Our first forum back in December was really successful and I was grateful for the time parents and carers gave us in feeding back views on our communications so that we can continue to improve the efficiency and effectiveness in that area.

At this next Forum we will be a community safety workshop delivered by colleagues from the London Borough of Bexley's community safety department.

It is a sad reality that we need to prepare our young people to be increasingly aware of the risks around them not only when socialising and when spending time with friends and also when travelling around the area and forging new relationships. The forum will look at how we can work together to keep our young people safe and also at helping us understand the current local trends and threats to safety including violent and drug related crime.

I very much hope that you will be able to join us for what promises to be an informative and extremely worthwhile session. As ever there will be an opportunity to ask questions and for you to share with us any ideas or priorities you may have as parents/carers.

If you wish to attend, please complete the google form by clicking this link.

Yours faithfully
